Columbia Tech Tip # 117:

If your hazard is dust or wood fibers, the P100 filter should be your go to filter. If your hazard is a gas or vapour, the multi-gas charcoal cartridge will almost always provide you the proper protection. These multi-gas cartridges provide protection from organic vapors, chlorine, ammonia, hydrogen chloride, hydrogen sulfide, hydrogen fluoride, and many more hazardous gases or vapours. If your hazard contains both of the above, then you'd simply require a double-stacked or combination filter cartridge. This cartridge is manufactured with a P100 filter attached to a multi-gas charcoal cartridge.
